Word Structure and Spelling	Text Structure	Sentence Structure
Pupils should be taught to: The difference between vocabulary typical of informal speech and vocabulary appropriate for formal speech and writing. Introduce abstract nouns. Consolidation of: Endings which sound like /jəs/ spelt –cious or –tious Not many common words end like this. If the root word ends in –ce, the /j/ sound is usually spelt as c – e.g. vice – vicious, grace – gracious, space – spacious, malice – malicious. Exception: anxious. Endings which sound like /jəl/ –cial is common after a vowel letter and –tial after a consonant letter, but there are some exceptions. Exceptions: initial, financial, commercial, provincial (the spelling of the last three is clearly related to finance, commerce and province). Words ending in –ant, –ance/–ancy, –ent, –ence/–ency Use –ant and –ance/–ancy if there is a related word with a /æ/ or /e/ sound in the right position; –ation endings are often a clue. Use –ent and –ence/–ency after soft c (/s/ sound), soft g (/dʒ/ /sound) and qu, or if there is a related word with a clear /ɛ/ sound in the right position. There are many words, however, where the above guidance does not help. These words just have to be learnt. Words ending in –able and –ible. Words ending in –ably and –ibly The –able/–ably endings are far more common than the –ible/–ibly endings. As with –ant and –ance/–ancy, the –able ending is used if there is a related word ending in –ation. If the –able ending is added to a word ending in –ce or –ge, the e after the c or g must be kept as those letters would otherwise have their ‘hard’ sounds (as in cap and gap) before the a of the –able ending. The –able ending is usually but not always used if a complete root word can be heard before it, even if there is no related word ending in –ation. The first five examples opposite are obvious; in reliable, the complete word rely is heard, but the y changes to i in accordance with the rule. The –ible ending is common if a complete root word can’t be heard before it but it also sometimes occurs when a complete word can be heard (e.g. sensible). Adding suffixes beginning with vowel letters to words ending in –fer The r is doubled if the –fer is still stressed when the ending is added. The r is not doubled if the –fer is no longer stressed. Spell some words with silent letters Some letters which are no longer sounded used to be sounded hundreds of years ago: e.g. in knight, there was a /k/ sound before the /n/, and the gh used to represent the sound that ‘ch’ now represents in the Scottish word loch. Continue to distinguish between homophones and near homophones In the pairs of words opposite, nouns end –ce and verbs end –se. Advice and advise provide a useful clue as the word advise (verb) is pronounced with a /z/ sound – which could not be spelt c. Words containing the letter-string ough ough is one of the trickiest spellings in English – it can be used to spell a number of different sounds. Spelling of words from years 5 & 6 word list – See school spelling folder and guidance	Pupils should be taught to: Write in a range of styles and formats. Use a wide range of devices to build cohesion within and across paragraphs (e.g. repetition of a word or phrase), grammatical connections (e.g. the use of adverbials such as on the other hand, in contrast, or as a con <hr/> Punctuation Pupils should be taught to: Teach the most appropriate use of brackets, dashes or commas to indicate parenthesis. Consolidate the use of the semi-colon, colon and dash to indicate a stronger subdivision of a sentence than a comma. How hyphens can be used to avoid ambiguity (e.g. man eating shark versus man- eating shark, or recover versus re-cover). To understand that bulleted lists introduced with a colon only have a full stop at the end of the last bullet. Moving to a higher level: Syntax and full range of punctuation are consistently accurate in a variety of sentence structures, with occasional errors in ambitious structures.	Talking into Writing Pupils should be taught to: Consolidate use of the passive voice to affect the presentation of information in a sentence (e.g. I broke the window in the greenhouse versus The window in the greenhouse was broken). Expanded noun phrases to convey complicated information concisely (e.g. the boy that jumped over the fence is over there, or the fact that it was raining meant the end of sports day). The difference between structures typical of informal speech and structures appropriate for formal speech and writing (such as the use of question tags, e.g. He’s your friend, isn’t he? or the use of the subjunctive in some very formal writing and speech). Moving to a higher level: Manipulation of subordinating connectives for emphasis or nominalisation for succinctness e.g. because of that, he failed. Modifiers are used to qualify, intensify or emphasise e.g. extremely intelligent, exceptional result, insignificant amount (shades of meaning).

Year 6 – Talking to writing (Think it, say it, write it, check it).

This Long Term Plan is a progression across Year 6. Some pupils will be capable of moving onto Year 7 expectations and to embed the curriculum at greater depth.

Teachers need to use the additional guidance in the New National Curriculum document to support them with planning and delivery of the Year 6 curriculum.
